QUESTIONS TO REFLECT ON:

- What are you beginning to re-imagine related to your faith right now?
- What feels scary about that? Energizing?
- What could it look like to have greater freedom in your faith? more mystery? more diversity? What are you longing for?
- When you think of igniting some of your passions related to love, beauty, and justice, what would a next step possibly be?
- What are a few questions this conversation is stirring up in you?
- How can you find courage to step into a more free, mysterious, and diverse faith? What support might you need for that?
